

ABSTRACT

Self-testing can be implemented by providing random-number instruction generator 123, which generates testing instructions randomly, and random-number data generators, which generates and sends random-number data based on instruction information signals 134 created by the random-number instruction generator.

---

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

