(54) Title: ENTERTAINMENT INTERACTION BASED ON ACCESSING A SEPARATE SYSTEM TO POPULATE A HIDDEN FIELD

FIG. 1

(57) Abstract: An interactive platform for controlling interactive features in an amusement park, wherein the interactive platform includes a control center that receives an account request from a user computer system, populates forward facing data fields based on user inputs from the user computer system, coordinates authentication of the account request with a separate system configured to utilize a login application programming interface to share authentication data, receives the authentication data from the separate system, provides access to a user account based on the authentication data, and populates hidden data fields of the control center based on user data provided by the separate system.
