METHODS AND STRUCTURES FOR ALTERING STRAIN IN III-NITRIDE MATERIALS

ABSTRACT

Methods and structures for producing semiconductor materials, substrates and devices with improved characteristics are disclosed. Structures and methods for forming reduced strain structures include forming an interface between a support structure surface and a strained semiconductor layer. The support structure is selectively etched to form a plurality of semiconductor islands with reduced levels of strain.