

ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatuses for displaying a process of a game, an electronic device and a storage medium are provided. In one aspect, according to the method, a client receives first service information from a service end which establishes a communication connection with the client, and displays a picture of a game region corresponding to a first identifier in the first service information; receives second service information from the service end, where the second service information includes position information of a new target game item present in a game item placement region; determines a target placement sub-region where the target game item is located according to the position information; obtains a number of the game items placed in the target placement sub-region; displays an image of the target game item in a display region corresponding to the target placement sub-region in the picture according to the number of placed game items.

[Fig. 1]