

ABSTRACT

The immunoreactive substance carrier of the present invention may stably deliver various immunoreactive substances, including antibodies and cytokines, to a target
5 site, thereby exhibiting excellent immunotherapeutic effects. Therefore, a composition comprising a carrier of the present invention can be used for immunotherapy, thereby having excellent effects in the prevention or treatment of cancer or various immune diseases.

FIG. 1