ABSTRACT

e-genting casino operating system

It is object of the present invention to provide for a casino operating system, the said system comprising of a casino operator in communication with a remote processor, and the remote processor in communication with a plurality of clients.

The remote processor can store, record and compute data related to each of the said plurality of clients, and the remote processor can comprise of a singular computational host machine or a plurality of computational host machines. The said data may cause or execute any number of activities that the casino operator wishes to perform for provision of any product, service or benefit to each of the said plurality of clients.

162162

G00001