(54) Title: PHOTOMASK CONTAINER

(57) Abstract: A container suitable for storing and transporting photomasks and including a container body, a cover, first and second cushions and left and right channels disposed in slots formed in the container body. In one embodiment, the container of this invention is formed in a one-piece design by rotomolding. The cover is subsequently separated from the body and machined so as to provide a slidingly sufficient seal and disposed therein.
