

[ABSTRACT]

A signal control device (50) includes an emergency vehicle information acquisition unit (540) configured to acquire emergency vehicle information including position information on an emergency vehicle, a traffic condition change amount

5 information acquisition unit (550) configured to acquire traffic condition change amount information indicating, for each road section, an amount of change in traffic conditions according to a lighting state of traffic lights, and a signal control unit (560) configured to perform, on the basis of the emergency vehicle information and the traffic condition change amount information, control of the traffic lights provided in a road section on 10 which the emergency vehicle travels.