

Method And Device For Water Treatment Using An Electromagnetic FieldABSTRACT

A method and a device for treating water using an electromagnetic field. The method comprising the steps of subjecting the water to the electromagnetic field generated utilising an inductor coil; and varying a frequency of a driving signal for the inductor coil such that the generated electromagnetic field has a varying frequency.

FIG. 6