

Abstract of the disclosure

Process for printing a plastic film with water containing inks and water containing additives

5

The present invention relates to a method of labeling an item of value wherein this method comprises:

a) printing identification information on a substrate by using an ink composition comprising a water based transfer agent; and

10

b) coating the printed identification information with an overcoat.

Fig. 1