

ABSTRACT

Regardless of arrangement positions of charts and description portions corresponding to the charts in a document, the charts and the description portions corresponding to the charts in the document are checked at the same time.

A display control apparatus 1 acquires document information that includes information on a main body and one or a plurality of charts, and includes a first display controller 17, which causes at least a portion of the main body included in the document information to be displayed on a first display screen, and a second display controller 20, which causes, among one or a plurality of charts, a chart associated with the portion of the main body displayed on the first display screen to be displayed on a second display screen.