

METHODS FOR DRAPING SURGICAL INCISION SITES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed are methods for draping a surgical incision site prior to surgery. Specifically, the methods of this invention involve the in situ formation of a cyanoacrylate polymeric drape over the skin surface at the surgical incision site. An incision is then made through this surface and the surgery is then conducted through the incision.

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

