COMPRESSION CONNECTOR

ABSTRACT

A compression connector comprising: a housing; and at least one terminal element disposed in the housing; wherein each terminal element comprises at least first and second cantilever segments, each cantilever segment interacting with the housing such that a load is distributed between the two segments when the terminal element is compressed.

Figure 5