

ABSTRACT

According to the embodiments of the present disclosure, a method, an apparatus, a device, and a storage medium for template recommendation are provided. The method for template recommendation includes: obtaining category information and object information of a target object, the category information indicating a category of the target object, and the object information indicating an attribute and a specification of the target object; selecting at least one candidate size template from a size template library based on the category information and the object information, a size template in the size template library including a correspondence between a plurality of size options in a plurality of size dimensions; presenting the at least one candidate size template; and associating a target size template in the at least one candidate size template with the target object based on user confirmation of the target size template.