Abstract of the Disclosure

A high speed jack capable of handling Category 7 communications. The jack comprises a shield and a housing inside the shield. The housing defines four distinct chambers for holding at least a first, second third, and fourth contact block, each contact block including at least two contacts. The contact blocks may be disposed symmetrically about a central axis of the housing. A horizontal shield and a vertical shield are disposed in the housing and shield the contacts from one another.