

RECREATIONAL AND EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM FOR LANGUAGE LEARNING IN GENERAL

Abstract

5

The present patent is described as a recreational and educational system for language learning in general which, according to the characteristics thereof, possesses as a principle to provide the formation of a recreational and educational system (1) with a proprietary and specific structure based on the perfect and 10 harmonious interaction between a proprietary central unit (2) with a set of specific auxiliary materials and a computer with a set of particular computer programs, in order to provide a practical and multi-sensory approach to the learning of several different languages, by means of a proper and unlimited interaction between the target audience and the subject to be approached and 15 having as a basis the incorporation of a proprietary structure possessing a properly integrated and symmetrically arranged central unit (2), a set of didactic blocks (3), a support mat (4), an identifying computer program and a set of computer programs with particular activities containing sound and image.

20

Figure no. 1A is suggested for publication