

ABSTRACT

An information processing device and an information processing program are provided which associate content information used by a user with image information registered by the user in connection with the use of the content information. An information processing device 1 includes a storage unit 11 that stores reproduction history information 112 representing a date and time of reproduction of content of content information 111 and photographing history information 114 representing a date and time of photographing of image information 113, and correspondence information creating means 104 that creates correspondence information 115 that associates the content information 111 with the image information 113 based on the reproduction history information 112 and the photographing history information 114.