Abstract

A method for information configuration is performed by a terminal. The method comprises: receiving configuration information sent by a network device for configuring a power-saving signal, wherein the power-saving signal is configured for the terminal to monitor a paging message in at least one of an idle state or an inactive state.

FIG. 2