

Abstract

The invention relates to a method for delivering a shipment by an unmanned transport device (1) to a receiving container (2) for said shipment (6), the method comprising the following and additional steps: moving the unmanned transport device (1) into a destination area (10) associated with the receiving container (2), on the basis of geographical coordinates (a); once the unmanned transport device (1) has reached the destination area (10), pairing of the transport device (1) with the receiving container (2) and exchanging electronic authorisation information (13) between the receiving container (2) and the unmanned transport device (1) (d).

(Fig. 2)