

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a high energy density lithium metal polymer (LMP) battery comprising a positive electrode that includes a high potential positive electrode active material and a block copolymer of AB or BAB type, A being an ethylene oxide block and B being an anionic polymer block based on lithium bis(trifluoromethylsulfonyl)imide.

Figure to be published: Figure 1