

[ABSTRACT]

A method for treating a gas of a floating body includes: a treatment device preparation step of preparing a plurality of treatment devices configured to detoxify an exhaust gas; a treatment device selection step of selecting at least one or more treatment devices in accordance with the amount of the exhaust gas that is discharged in one floating body, from among the plurality of treatment devices prepared in the treatment device preparation step; a treatment device installation step of installing the treatment devices corresponding to the number selected in the treatment device selection step on at least one of the floating body and another floating body different from the floating body; and a treatment step of treating the exhaust gas of the floating body by using the treatment devices installed in the treatment device installation step.

(Fig.2)