

ABSTRACT

To provide patient status determination device, which receives continuous biological information from a state
5 detection device that continuously detects biological information of a patient and measured biological information from a measuring device that measures biological information of the patient, appropriately determines the state of the patient, based on the received continuous biological 10 information and the measured biological information, whereby it is possible to determine the state of the patient properly, based on the plurality of biological information of the patient.