

ABSTRACT

This invention provides with an edaravone suspension for oral administration having excellent bioavailability. It is expected that burden on ALS patients and care workers can be reduced thereby.