162162

G00002

Security Services For Wireless Devices

Abstract of the Disclosure

A wireless system (10) may include a separately accessible protocol stack (18) and security services module (16). The security services module (16) may handle cryptographic algorithms and other security services. Since the modules (16, 18) are separately accessible, the protocol stack (18) may be developed, tested and updated independently of the security services module (16) and vice versa.