

ABSTRACT

An ultrasonic cleaning head includes a vibration surface that faces an upper surface of a substrate with a gap therebetween and that comes in contact with 5 a liquid film formed on the upper surface of the substrate. The vibration surface has a surface density of Ce element of 30×10^{10} atoms/cm² or less as detected by total reflection X-ray fluorescence analysis.

10

FIG. 5