

Abstract

METHOD FOR PURIFYING ORGANIC SOLVENT

A method for purifying an organic solvent, comprising contacting an organic solvent containing polyvalent metal ions with a monolithic organic porous ion exchanger.

According to the present invention, a method for purifying an organic solvent can be provided, wherein a high rate of removing polyvalent metal ions in an organic solvent is achieved.