

METHOD, APPARATUS, DEVICE AND MEDIUM FOR INFORMATION UPDATING

ABSTRACT

5

According to the embodiments of the present disclosure, a method, an apparatus, a device, and a storage medium for information updating are provided. The method for information updating comprises obtaining a response result of a target object to a target item, the response result indicating a successful or a failure response of the target object to the target item. The method also comprises determining a capability update amount for the target object based on capability information of the target object, attribute information of the target item, and the response result; and updating the capability information of the target object based on the capability update amount, to obtain updated capability information of the target object.

10

15

FIG. 3