

Electrical Submersible Pump Stage Construction

Abstract

An electrical submersible pump stage including impeller and diffuser, each comprising of hub, blades and outside ring wherein: the stage flow area is constructed from separate segments manufactured from wear resistant material , segments retention to hub is achieved by means of external compression fit rings.

Figure 1