FIG. 3

(57) Abstract: Aspects include receiving a request from a user to access data that was acquired by a third-party from a data owner, the data in an encrypted format unreadable by the user. In response to receiving the request from the user to access the data, a third-party key from the third-party is requested and a data owner key from the data owner is requested. The third-party key and the data owner key are applied to the data in the encrypted format to generate the data in an unencrypted format readable by the user.
