ABSTRACT

The present disclosure provides a method, apparatus, device, medium and program product for replying questions. The method presents a reply viewing interface for a question to a user, the reply viewing interface including a first reply control; receives a first reply operation of the user based on the first reply control; publishes a first reply video according to the first reply operation, the first reply video being used for replying to the question.