162162

Abstract

According to the present invention, capable of safely holding a large amount of undifferentiated embryonic stem cells to culture in the absence of feeder cells or feeder cell-derived components.

Cultured embryonic stem cells can be applied to the fields of cell culture, tissue transplantation, drug development, and gene therapy.

G00002