

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a method for preparing a heterologous multimer by means of a recombination reaction. In particular, the present disclosure relates to a method for preparing the heterologous multimer (especially a multispecific antibody), and changing the amino acid of the CH3 domain to facilitate the formation of the heterologous multimer (especially the multispecific antibody).