Abstract

Process for carrying out catalytic multiphase reactions, in particular vinylations of carboxylic acids

A process for carrying out catalytic multiphase reactions in a tube reactor, wherein the catalyst is present in the continuous phase and at least one starting material is present in a dispersed phase and the loading factor B of the tube reactor is equal to or greater than 0.8.

Figure: None