CLAIMS

1. Use of flibanserin in the preparation of a drug for treating androgenic alopecia.

2. The use according to claim 1, characterized in that flibanserin can increase hair length, the ratio of anagen to telogen, the ratio of epidermal thickness to dermal thickness, the number of hair follicles per unit area, and the diameter of hair follicles.

3. The use according to claim 1, characterized by the use of flibanserin in the preparation of a drug for reversing androgen-mediated androgenic alopecia damage, treating androgenic alopecia, and restoring hair growth.

4. Use of flibanserin in the preparation of a drug for inhibiting an androgen receptor dimer and preventing it from entering the nucleus.