

ABSTRACT

CORRUGATED BOARD COFFIN

The invention is directed to a corrugated board coffin comprising a receptacle for receiving a corpse, a bottom tray wherein the receptacle is inserted into the bottom tray, a viewing cover having an aperture for viewing a portion of the corpse, the viewing cover being positioned over the receptacle, at least two hinge where each hinge has a first wing coupled to the viewing cover and a second wing extending from the viewing cove, and a lid positioned on the viewing cover wherein the lid is coupled to the viewing cover through the second wings of the at least two hinges such that the lid is movable between an open position and a closed position.

[Fig. 1]